ABOUT WALTJA

Waltja Tjutangku Palyapayi Aboriginal Corporation (Waltja) is a community-based organisation that works with families from Central Desert Indigenous communities to address major issues affecting their communities.

Waltja means 'Family' and our services follow the life-cycle of the family. We support children, mothers and fathers, youth and their families, and elders through various projects and funding. Our programs aim to alleviate social distress and improve community relations more broadly.

We are a registered Charity and incorporated under the CATSI Act, with annual turnover in the vicinity of $3.2M. The organisation is self-funded due to many years of careful money management. We have long running government-funded programs in Youth Support, Family Mental Health Support, Children and Families Intensive Support, Emergency Relief, Financial Wellbeing and the NDIS as well as a number of short term grant funded programs.

Our services are delivered across the whole Central Australian region - language groups: Luritja, Warlpiri, Anmatjere, Katyetye, Alywarre, Western, Eastern and Central Arrernte, and Pitjantjatjara. Communities we provide services in include Kintore, Areyonga, Mt Liebig, Nyirripi, Yuendumu, Laramba, Engawala, Titjikala, Santa Teresa, Papunya, Ti Tree, Atitjere, Bonya and Utopia Homelands.

We plan to consolidate, document and promote Waltja's way of working, The Waltja Way, and to continue to advocate for policies and programs based upon self-determination of Aboriginal people and sustainable development of remote communities.

Waltja is committed to recruitment and mentoring of Aboriginal trainees, and to the provision of employment pathways in fieldwork, multimedia and administration. We seek to further develop our online art sales program as well as further developing and expanding our NDIS business services and community development programs which have grown steadily.

Waltja will develop a Business Plan to develop our Baldissera Drive property as a commercial and cultural asset. We are committed to our focus on well-being and redress of inequities for Aboriginal families in remote communities. This means Waltja is committed to maintaining our long-term funding relationship with the Department of Social Services, but we also seek to further diversify our funding sources through developing long-term relationships with philanthropic organisations.

Our offices are at Waltja HQ in Alice Springs, with approximately 20 staff engaged on a regular basis, this varies according to the projects we are currently delivering. Many of our long-term staff have worked and studied their way up from Indigenous traineeships and progressed into leadership positions.

All programs are the result of in depth consultations with the community and guidance is provided by our Indigenous board of directors. The Directors are responsible for setting direction and making decisions about projects and programs. They help facilitate programs, smooth the way for delivery on communities and help us make sure the right people receive assistance. The Directors employ Aboriginal workers and Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal support workers to run a range of programs, forums, workshops, training and cultural activities.

We have hundreds of community members associated with Waltja across the Central Desert region. Our members get to have their say at meetings and also talk to directors, who live on the Communities we serve.

At the core of Waltja's work is a desire to develop and promote the capacity of the members of the Central Australian communities for self-management and self-determination.

CEO DUTY STATEMENT

POSITION TITLE:

Chief Executive Officer (CEO)

LOCATION:

Alice Springs with occasional travel to and camping in remote communities in the Central Desert region required.

CONTRACT DETAILS:

Full-time contract - 3 years with option of 2 years extension

POSITION OBJECTIVE:

To be responsible for the effective management and development of Waltja Tjutangku Palyapayi Aboriginal Corporation (Waltja) as an innovative and leading Indigenous organisation in the central desert region of NT.

ACCOUNTABILITY:

The CEO is accountable to the Executive Directors and elected Board of Directors. Waltja's Directors are senior women from the remote Aboriginal communities that Waltja works in.

ORGANISATIONAL CONTEXT

Waltja Tjutangku Palyapayi Aboriginal Corporation (Waltja) is an Aboriginal controlled, community-based organisation doing good work with families, which is grounded in strong culture and relationships.

We work in remote Central Australian Aboriginal communities, across nine languages and approximately one fifth of the Northern Territory. Our members live in over twenty remote communities and in outstations across our service area.

Waltja's foundation is the leadership of strong Aboriginal women, our focus on families, and our support for community self-management and self-determination. Whilst we are led by women, we employ and work with everyone.

Waltja's work focuses on the maintenance of culture and language and addressing significant disadvantages and gaps in service delivery for families in remote communities.

To work effectively with families in communities on priorities determined by our Directors, Waltja collaborates with community elders, leaders and NGOs, regional councils, schools, NT and Australian Government Departments and philanthropic organisations following a set of operating principles we call the Waltja Way.

The Waltja Way

Waltja's Directors are the foundation of how we work, how Waltja connects with community and how we evaluate our processes and programs and their impact. All our policies, programs, projects and activities follow the values and priorities of these senior women.

Local Aboriginal ways of doing business are incorporated into Waltja's values, processes and organisational structure which is known as the Waltja Way.

The Waltja Way gives Waltja an overall approach which is unique. The Waltja Way is recognised and appreciated by members, families and other organisations we work with.

Principles

- Family is the foundation of Aboriginal community and identity.
- Service delivery is most effective when it occurs in the context of family as understood by Aboriginal people.
- Waltja promotes self-reliance and dignity.
- Waltja works with everyone in the community.
- Direct service delivery is most effective when provided by local people who have access to training and support to ensure quality outcomes.
- Building and sustaining partnerships with Aboriginal communities is the most effective way of providing services to families.
- Direct services need to be located in, and supported by, local communities.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

The overall success of the organisation will require the following areas of responsibility to be managed effectively by the CEO:

1. Organisational Fit and Leadership

- Demonstrating through your actions, leadership and relationships with staff, Directors and members your commitment to Waltja's values and way of working.
- Being prepared to be a part of the Waltja family, walking alongside others and listening to and learning from Waltja Directors.
- Understanding the long-term nature of projects, change and the decision-making process at Waltja and providing a safe and neutral space to enable decision making to occur.
- Playing a leadership role in creating and maintaining a positive and successful and supportive work environment and organisational culture.
- Developing a strong, respectful, effective and supportive relationship with the Directors and never working in isolation from them.

2. Strong Indigenous Governance and Advocacy

- Supporting the Executive Directors to effectively govern the organisation through active participation, training, capacity and skills development.
- Ensuring activities, decisions and actions of the Board comply with the current CATSI Act governing Aboriginal Corporations.
- Ensuring Waltja adheres to all its corporate, governance, statutory and contractual reporting obligations.
- Implementing the Strategic Business plan, policies and directions of the Executive.
- Ensuring the development and implementation of an ongoing evaluation process for Waltja.
- Ensuring that all programs and staff work in a strength based respectful way to support the maintenance and practice of Aboriginal culture and the self determination of Aboriginal families.
- Managing and strengthening Waltja's stakeholder partnerships and relationships.

3. Financial Management

- Ensuring the solvency of the organisation through consistent and ethical management of individual program budgets, expenses and income.
- Managing and acquitting programs and activities to specified contractual agreements.
- Planning for Fundraising activities and the generation of funds to provide services.
- Ensure the Waltja's financial position and decisions are well understood by the Executive
- Forecasting profit / loss reports and guiding Board of Directors in decision making processes that ensure Waltja's continuance.
- Ensure that Waltja's finance officer and external accountant receive accurate and timely information, and that their reports and advice are made available to Waltja Executive Directors.

4. Program Management

- Evaluating and monitoring all programs in conjunction with the Executive Directors to ensure that programs are meeting Waltja members' needs
- Working with Executive Directors, Staff, other NGO and appropriate Government bodies to identify and develop new programs, including submission and report writing.
- Ensuring that Project Managers and Coordinators understand and meet all contractual obligations for Waltja projects.
- Improving the effectiveness and efficiency of existing and new Waltja programs.
- Work with Directors to further the business growth initiatives for the organisation.

5. Human Resource Management

- In conjunction with the Waltja Board of Directors, be responsible for the recruitment, selection, induction of and ongoing training of staff.
- Lead, mentor, support and develop a team of approximately 20 full time equivalent staff.
- Monitor staff performance through staff meetings, performance appraisals and professional development and develop and support mentoring relationships between staff.
- Succession planning for the engagement and employment of Indigenous staff.
- Managing effective staff teams, addressing team building, employment pathways and conflict resolution.

6. Personal Attributes

- Willingness to walk alongside others, being prepared to join the Waltja family and listen and learn from the Waltja Directors.
- Kind, understanding, respectful and with the ability to listen.
- Prepared to develop a trusting and long-lasting relationship with Waltja Directors, valuing community and family and what they have achieved.
- An understanding of Indigenous culture and the ability to work positively and effectively with Indigenous people.
